

Research Center of Chinese Public Administration, Society and Economics

The Research Center of Chinese Public Administration, Society and Economics is a unique institution in Hungary that undertakes the mission of educating and training current and prospective public servants with accurate, up-to-date and practical knowledge of the People's Republic of China. The Centre fulfils special demands through its educational, research and government consultative work in the field of modern Sinology.

Within the National University of Public Service the Centre provides courses on China's international relations, economy, public administration and society, while also being involved in education at BA (BSc) and MA (MSc) levels at the university's faculties. Furthermore, it offers Chinese language courses that fit into a comprehensive Chinese language program: every academic year 10-18 participants of the language program study in the People's Republic of China for two semesters through Hungarian and Chinese bilateral government scholarships and other programs.

The Centre also conducts research in the fields of international relations, economy, public administration and society of the People's Republic of China, putting emphasis on delivering applicable results for the academic community as well as providing people working in various fields of public service with crucial information and knowledge on China.

Contact:

Address: National University of Public Service, Ménesi Campus, 5. Ménesi út, 1118 Budapest, Hungary, Office Nr. 108.

Phone: +36 (1) 432-9265

E-mail: jonas.zsolt@uni-nke.hu