Course description	The goal of the first semester is the historical presentation of the main trends and models of the European state government. During this period we will carry out a historical and state historical analysis of states that are considered as models for European development. From the prominent ancient states through the medieval states, we will overview the historical cornerstones of the English, French, German state development that established a modern constitutional structure. We also give an overview of the specific types of European development.
Learning outcomes and course competences	The course will explore the need for public managers to understand the the main characteristics and differences of the European legal systems. They acquire a proper method how to identify and analyse complex problems and have a better understandig based on their knowledge of history. With the development of their critical and comparative thinking the students will be able to develop proper answers and measures for administrative intervention and improvement taking into consideration the democratic values.
